The Silk Market

Unhappy Outlook Situation In U.S. Japanese Revival

THOSE interests in the silk trade that take a pessimistic view of the situation call attention to the fact that the silk exporters from Shanghai have for many weeks been devoid of orders, and that the big buying prospects that were engendered at the time of the Japanese catastrophe have been exceedingly exaggerated. Conditions at the present moment are by no means sound. The dealers are eating into the unfilled orders of two months ago, and when these are entirely executed things should begin to wear a different color.

This is not a happy prospect, especially if New York and Lyons continue to show little interest in the price fluctuations of the Shanghai silk market. It is pointed out that the buying in the first half of September, chiefly as a result of the fear that stocks of Japanese silk had been almost entirely destroyed, served to introduce some activity into the local trade, but the eagerness of the Chinese sericulturists to seize the opportunity for sponging the American buyers killed all chances of a very big trade.

For a time the manufacturers in the United States were willing to pay the big increases in price demanded by the Chinese holders, and it might safely be said that the bulk of the purchases were prompted by a fear that values would go soaring up without a halt. Had it not been that consumers fairly stampeded the market, the monotonous drag of the Shanghai silk market would not have been broken. But for this artificial rise in prices of Chinese raw silk the situation in the trade would be decidedly less favorable today than it actually is.

AMERICAN STOCKS

The prediction made in some quarters that a renewed wave of buying would be witnessed before the end of the year prompts one to a complete study of the situation to ascertain the true condition of affairs. This investigation divulges the fact that some manufacturers in the United States are fairly well supplied while others are not in so favorable a position. Statistics of the Silk Association of America give stocks on hand at September 1st at approximately 25,000 bales. Estimating for the moment that fresh exports of Japan silk will not be available in New York with any regularity before the middle of November the American silk manufacturer will have available for the next two weeks the 25,000 bales already in stock, plus silk in transit from Japan to America on September 1, plus what silk may be expected during this period from the other primary markets.

Estimating silk in transit on September 1 at 10,000 bales and arrivals in America from other sources during September, October and early part of November at 10,000 bales monthly the American manufacturer would have available some 60,000 bales to cover a period during which his normal requirements would be about 75,000 bales. The deficiency has already been made good by purchases in the Shanghai, Canton and, to a small extent Milan markets. The New York silk market is already declining.

The downward tendency is speculated here as due to an increasing knowledge in New York of the Yokohama situation reflected in the quotation at present ruling in Yokohama and the expectation of large supplies on the brisk shipment, from Kobe, of contracts before the earthquake. For some reason or other the exact quantity of silk burned in Yokohama has not been published by the Japanese people, but conservative estimates place it at 50,000 to 60,000 bales. Although trading in silk has now been resumed in Yokohama, the aggregate of business covered daily is not large.

SITUATION PUZZLING

The absence of reliable information so far as to the extent of the damage, the uncertainty as to when or to what extent the transport facilities to Kobe and Yokohama will help the shortage, brought about by users' timidity and the consequent forced restriction of stocks by dealers, all contribute to make the situation somewhat puzzling, and the carry over difficult until things get going again. While the probabilities of the resumption of exports from Japan are of interest to the American manufacturer, of more immediate concern is the question of prices to be expected in the course of the coming months.

The purchasing of Canton silk by American manufacturers in September assumed large proportions by reason of the Japanese catastrophe. September shipments of Cantonese raw silk amounted to 589,225 pounds valued at G. $4,635,636 against 445,150 pounds valued at G. $2,913,935 in September, 1922. There has been a big drop in the price of Canton raw silk since the beginning of September, the rate being about

QUEZON MEN ALARMED AS DEMOCRATAS HELP WOOD

Politics In Philippines Begin To Take New Turn

SUPPORT PLEDGED

Attitude Of Coolidge Unalterable, Is View

(Exclusive China Press)

Manila, P.I., Oct. 29.—The Quezon party is clearly alarmed over the attitude of Governor - General Leonard Wood since his receipt of the cable from Secretary of War Weeks indorsing his stand in the administration of the islands.

Governor Wood has appointed democratas to fill vacancies in the legislature and the probability is that he will fill other coalitionist vacancies in the same manner, ending the period of "damn America" as the sesame for office.

The coalitionists hold out to the public hopes that President Coolidge will modify his position following an interview which he is to have with Pedro Guevara, resident commissioner for the Philippines at Washington, but the cable of Secretary Weeks was so sound regarding the law as well as clear regarding the attitude of President Coolidge on non-participation in the present dispute, however, that it is not anticipated that there will be any back-down in the matter.

Representative Sotto, a leader of the democratas, in an interview published here today says that "it appears that Washington is predisposed to uphold the acts of its representative in these islands, placing his prestige and authority above everything infringing upon them, as defined by the limitations of the organic act."

PERIL IS SEEN

"Within these limitations", Representative Sotto continued, "it is probable that Governor-General Wood will continue to govern the country. The machinery of government continues to function. The government is not being embarrassed by threats of strikes and closing up the factories.

"Governor Wood is reponsible and must carry out the work entrusted to him, and if the coalitionists resign he is forced to name for the vacancies either democatas, representative men from the other parties, or Americans who will unconditionally cooperate with him. The latter alternative offers the possibility of bringing on open hostilities against the United States. I do not believe that the coalition desires to force Governor Wood to take this step, nor do I believe that he desires to take it, all of his utterances having made clear that he intends to rule the islands within the limits of the organic act.

"I believe that I voice the feeling of the democrata party when I say that Wood may depend upon its membership to co-operate with him in his efforts to destroy the oligarchy which the coalitionists have established."

GROWS MORE SERIOUS

Continuing Representative Sotto stated that "the political situation as shaped by the unyielding atti-

VOTES FOR MEN IN JAPAN, BUT NOT FOR WOMEN

(Exclusive China Press)

Tokio, Oct. 28.—The legislative deliberative commission some time ago decided upon the abolition without condition of tax qualification regarding the extension of suffrage and at its meeting yesterday further decided that the age of electoral qualification should be 25 and upward and that suffrage be extended to students.

It has been decided, however, not to accord the electoral right to women, on the ground that the time is too premature to do so. As for the domicile limit, six months has been decided upon as per the law now in force. The question as to whether or not members of households shall be empowered to elect the heads has been vetoed.

Misses Darroch And Sharp, Long Held By Honan Bandits, Finally Are Given Freedom

Brief Message Tells Of Release Of China Inland Mission Captives After Hope Had Weakened; Terms Not Yet Known

Miss M. Darroch and Miss M. R. Sharp, the two foreign missionary ladies captured by Honan brigands over a month ago, have been released, according to a brief telegram received by the China Inland Mission offices here late yesterday.

The telegram bringing the welcome news of the ladies release was sent from Kiashien by the Rev. F. S. Joyce, superintendent of the China Inland Mission work in Honan. It stated merely "ladies released" and details are being awaited here.

RELEASE UNEXPECTED

Word of the freeing of the captives, who have been held since September 23, came as a pleasing surprise, since the latest reports, even up to yesterday, were decidedly pessimistic. A mailed communication received at the China Inland Mission offices here yesterday morning from Mr. Henry T. Ford, of the C.I.M., who had joined Mr. Joyce at Lushan, stated that the bandits had absolutely rejected the terms submitted by the officials and that in consequence the officials had ordered the troops to advance on the outlaw stronghold. With the receipt of this information hope for the early release of Miss Darroch and Miss Sharp faded and much apprehension was felt for their safety as prospects of an armed clash increased. Whether the bandits, in the face of the military advance, decided to free their captives in order to evade battle or whether new terms were submitted and agreed to was matter of speculation here last night.

SEIZED SEPTEMBER 23

Miss Darroch and Miss Sharp were seized by the outlaw band at the sack of Sihwahsien on September 23. Sihwahsien is only about 5 or 6 kilometers from Yencheng, on the Peking-Hankow railway line, and the district thereabouts was terrorised for some days by the brigands, who numbered about 800. The outlaws headed westward for the hills, pursued by troops and at one time were believed to have been surrounded and trapped, but they broke through and attained the security of the mountains at Lushan. From this point the bandit chieftain, Fan, sent down messengers and endeavored to treat with the authorities. His demands, persistently adhered to throughout the negotiations, were for the enlistment of his men in the army—practically the same demands made by the Lincheng bandits.

TERMS REJECTED

The terms were rejected by the provincial officials and a few days ago, it was reported, the bandit chief agreed to exchange the lady prisoners for two foreign men, who were to be held until the negotiations were concluded. With regard to this proposal the ladies made the following brave refusal of acceptance in a letter addressed to Mr. Joyce on October 20:

"Dear Mr. Joyce, Your letters are a great comfort to us. I think we have received four. We are sick of the life but do not want anyone to take our place. Please do not send anything to us as we have no means of carrying, having to ride animals over these mountains. God is with us.

If we want milk Fan Si-ling gets it for us. He bought us bedding, mien ao, milk, shoes and socks from Lushan last week. We shall be glad to get home. We know you are praying for us.

Fan Si-ling wishes you to urge the Governor to again consult with him re terms. Warm thanks

Yours very sincerely,"

(Signed) M. Darroch, M. R. Sharp.

At the time the latest reports were heard from them the bandits and their captives were believed to be about 40 li to the northwest of Lushan, the name of the place being given as Ruanho. The ladies suffered terrific hardship during their captivity.

RUSSO-ASIATIC BANK'S HISTORY POINT AT ISSUE

Exchange Suit In U. S. Court Involves Political Finance

The organisation and inside-workings of the Russo-Asiatic Bank were the center of attraction at the U. S. Court yesterday afternoon when the motion of the defendants in the case of the bank versus Max Wulfsohn and Company for dismissal was called.

The bank is suing Wulfsohn and Company for G.$160,000 on four exchange contracts. Mr. R. T. Evans and Fessenden and Holcomb represent the defendant and Schuhl and Schoenfold represent the plaintiff.

Mr. Charles Bleuler, manager in Asia of the bank, and Mr. George A. Candlin, sub-manager, appeared as witnesses on subpoenas through the Swiss and British Consulates. Mr. Evan's questions dealt amonst entirely with the organisation and inner-workings of the bank.

"Do you obey the Soviet Government?" Mr. Evans asked.

"I refuse to answer." Mr. Bleuler replied.

"Have you received any orders from the Soviet?"

"No."

"Have you any relations with the Soviet?"

"No."

"Did the bank not act as fiscal agent for the Imperial Russian Government?"

"Not that I know of."

PRIVATE CONCERN

Mr. Bleuler then explained that the Russo-Asiatic Bank was a private shareholding organisation, not a governmental institution.

"Isn't it a fact," Mr. Evans asked, "that when the bank was organised the government, not the bank, put in the money—that the bank was merely a cover for the government in financing the Chinese Eastern Railway?"

"That I don't know," Mr. Bleuler replied.

Mr. Candlin, the sub-manager, was then called and said that as far as he knew the Imperial Russian Government was only a shareholder, and a small one, when the bank was organised. He understood, he said, that Count Witte, had sold the government's shares after the Russo-Japanese War.

"Isn't it a fact that the government was the only shareholder?" Mr. Evans insisted again.

Copies of the affidavits under which Mr. Bleuler and Mr. Candlin derive their authority as manager and sub-manager were then put in as evidence by Mr. Evans on the contention that they were merely powers of attorney 'from gentlemen in Paris' delegating the Shanghai men to act for them. Mr. Evans also made much of whether the head offices of the bank were in Paris or Petrograd.

Mr. Bleuler and Mr. Candlin both said Paris and Mr. Evans then called their attention to letterheads of the Harbin branch which gave Petrograd.

In conclusion Mr. Evans stated that the American Legation in Peking had refused to take the deposition on commission of Mr. L. M. Karahan, the Soviet Envoy at Peking, in the case on the ground that they would have to await instructions from Washington as the Soviet Government was not recognised by the United States.

Dresden, Oct. 28.—The Government of Saxony has refused the Imperial Chancellor's demand for its resignation.

Berlin, Oct. 27.—The Imperial Government has demanded the resignation of the Saxon Government by tomorrow as the outcome of incitements by the Communist members of the latter to violence and rebellion against Imperial Government authority.

Dr. Stresemann informed the Saxon Premier, Dr. Zeigner, that the Imperial Government no longer recognised his Ministry and notified him of the measures the Imperial Government would take in the event of non-resignation.

JAPANESE 'SUB' SINKS AT RITES FOR 'SUB' DEAD

She is now lying at the bottom in eight fathoms of water. The wireless pole and periscope are above water.

The crew of over 80, including the captain, were all saved by a submarine nearby. The cause is believed to have been the flooding of the water-tank. It is expected that she can be refloated without difficulty.

British Court Assumes Jurisdiction In Barnes Divorce Proceedings

Direct testimony dealing with the allegations of cruelty and adultery made by Mrs. Isobel Bain Barnes against John Oliver Barnes in the British Supreme Court was given yesterday after Sir Shirley Tupper had assumed jurisdiction on the question of domicile.

The domicile issue began at the opening of the case last week and was concluded yesterday morning with the evidence of several witnesses. At the conclusion of their testimony Sir Skinner held the residence of Mr. Barnes was in Shanghai and testimony on the grounds alleged began. In addition to other witnesses both Mr. and Mrs. Barnes took the stand.

Mrs. Barnes is represented by Mr. L. K. Kentwell and Barnes by Mr. Tycho Wing.

Mr. Kentwell first read the deposition of Mrs. Roach, the mother of Mrs. Barnes, who could not attend court because of illness. Mrs. Roach testified that she had heard Barnes say he intended to spend the rest of his days in Shanghai on several occasions. While in England after the war, she said, he had attempted to commute his pension so that he could buy goods to go in business for himself here.

BARNES TESTIFIES

Mr. Barnes then took the stand to deny that his permanent domicile was in China. He was 46 years old, he said, and had first come to China in 1900 during the Boxer trouble as a British soldier. Afterwards, he had bought his discharge and obtained a position, working first with the Gas Company and later with the Light and Sanitary Company. Just before the war he ran a riding school as a side issue.

At the time of the war, he said, he quit the Sanitary Company because it was a German firm and on the black list and went back to England to join up. In the war he lost a leg and wanted to remain in England. His wife, however, was a Shanghai girl he continued, and wanted to return here and he at length agreed and came back. After his return he had lived with his wife only two months. He did not intend to remain in Shanghai the rest of his life, he said, and had already found it difficult here. The climate was bad for his leg and job's scarce. On one job he had with the Oriental Cotton Mill he had to climb 93 steps and walk a quarter of a mile each way. He couldn't keep that up with his heavy artificial leg, he said, and had to quit.

NEEDED AN AMAH

Under cross-examination Mr. Barnes denied that the only reason he had joined up was because he had lost his job here and repeated again that his main reason in ever returning was because of his wife.

"My wife is a Shanghai girl and wants an amah," he said.

Barnes further said that if he should win the Champion's he would take the first boat out tomorrow for England. He'd go anyway, he said, if he had the money, and if Mr. Kentwell didn't believe it just let him give him the passage money and he'd see. New light, aluminum legs had been invented since he got his, Barnes continued, and he wanted to go back and have one fitted.

In reply to a question by Sir Skinner Turner as to whether he could get a position in England, Barnes said he did not know.

"That is in the lap of the gods," the Chief Judge remarked, evidently with reference to the widespread unemployment in England at the present time.

Barnes said, however, that he could go back and live in a cottage with a few chickens on his pension.

FRIENDS TESTIFY

Three of Mr. Barnes' friends then took the stand and testified that he had told them—Samuel Hughes of the Public Works De-

FASCISTI WORK IS REVIEWED BY MUSSOLINI

Premier Is Loudly Cheered In Celebration Of Anniversary

(Reuter's Service)

Milan, Oct. 28.—Signor Mussolini, in a speech at the celebration of the first anniversary of the Fascist march to Rome, said that the few hundred stalwarts of Fascism whom he had addressed at the same place a year ago, had now grown into a multitude. The Fascist Government had kept its promises. An army had been created on which the nation could implicitly rely and this was known abroad as well as at home.

Referring to Corfu, the Prime Minister declared that for the first time Italy had taken an absolutely independent step. The Government had denied the competence of the "Genevan Areopagus," which was opposed to proletarian nations. Those days were graver than was generally thought. The Italian people had given an example of discipline. If it had been necessary to march, they would undoubtedly have done so.

In conclusion Signor Mussolini said: "The Black Shirts rely on me and I rely on you." The Premier was loudly cheered. The demonstrations continued throughout the day.

U.S. STIRRED BY REPORTS OF BIG LOAN FOR GERMANY

New York Sees Action As Result Of Parley

WHEAT CREDITS

Coolidge Considering Plans For Sale Of Surplus

(Reuter's Service)

New York, Oct. 28.—The newspapers display prominent reports that a big German loan, to be floated chiefly in the United States, is likely to develop out of the proposed international reparations conference.

German reports that the United States is planning a huge wheat credit to Germany undoubtedly arose from the fact that President Coolidge, with a view to relieving American agriculture is seriously considering the proposal that the War Finance Corporation should finance the sale of surplus produce to Europe if an economically sound way of doing so can be found.

The New York Times expresses the opinion that the whole European situation has been changed by the latest turn of events there.

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Oct. 28.—In a speech today at Sampigny, the Premier, M. Poincare, declared that France would not agree to a reduction of the German debt fixed in May, 1921.

Referring to Mr. Baldwin's speech, M. Poincare stated that he entirely agreed on the importance of the earliest possible inter-Allied settlement of the reparations question and the advantage of United States co-operation in the matter.

He would accept the appointment by the Reparations Commission of a committee of experts to examine Germany's capacity for payment, reform of German finances, and a concrete reparations scheme, provided the procedure remained within the four corners of the Treaty, but France would never agree to the Reparations Commission being divested of its functions or replaced by an organism in which France's share of influence—already inferior to France's share of interest—should be further reduced. "The limit of our concessions has been attained. We will go no further."

The Premier declared that the separatist movement was spontaneous. It was due to the malaise of the inhabitants and their old opposition to Russia. It was not France's doing. France had always held scrupulously aloof from German internal affairs. Whatever Germany's future constitution, France would never violate the conscience of the inhabitants. France cherished no plan of annexation, but she would not renounce her claim to permanent guarantees of security.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Oct. 28.—The French acceptance of the meeting of experts to determine Germany's capacity for payment has been well received by foreign opinion. The Matin emphasises that the French attitude is in accordance with the preference of the American Government, which is opposed to the idea of a big conference at which the problem of reparations would have to be gone into from the bottom.

(French Wireless through Reuter)

Paris, Oct. 28.—Negotiations are continuing in the occupied territory between Herren Stinnes and Glockner and the Inter-Allied Mission for the Control of Factories with regard to the resumption or reparations deliveries and payment of coal taxes. The Petit Parisien learns that the mining industrialists appear to understand that, now the other German industrial groups have come to an agreement with the Allies, they should not yield to Herr Stinnes's threats.

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 27.—A number of London newspapers are at present sceptical with regard to the outcome of the negotiations for a reparations conference on account of the limitations the French have placed on its scope. It is pointed out that the French by no means offer approximates General Smuts's. It is recalled that the bankers' conference last year failed owing to the attitude of the French delegate on the Reparations Commission.

On the other hand, opinion as revealed in Washington telegrams is favorably impressed with the French reply. Official quarters are confident that the bridge created is likely to lead to a practical adjustment. Fears were previously prevalent that France might make acceptance conditional on the United States becoming a full member of the Reparations Commission, which would consolidate President Coolidge's opposition and doom his efforts to failure, but the American consensus now follows the opinion voiced by Mr. Lloyd George at Washington, welcoming the French reply as a step in the right direction and declaring that nobody should stand on technicalities.

(Reuter's Service)

Rome, Oct. 27.—It is semi-officially reported that Italy has sent a favorable reply to the British proposal regarding an invitation to the United States to collaborate with the Allies in a reparations solution.

(Reuter's Service)

Brussels, Oct. 27.—Belgium has notified London and Washington of her acceptance of the suggestion of a conference on reparations to be appointed by the Reparations Commission.

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 27.—Britain has received French assent to an international committee, but it is generally admitted that the nature of the French acquiescence puts a full-dress conference on reparations out of the question.

The next step expected is that the Reparations Commission will invite the American and Allied Governments to sit on the proposed committee.

Reuter's correspondent in Paris states that it is emphasised that the committee of enquiry into Germany's capacity would be purely an advisory body and that the Reparations Commission would not be bound to adopt its recommendations.

JAPAN VOICES PROTEST ANEW ON RADIO DEAL

Federal Wireless Contract Formally Sanctioned At Peking

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Oct. 28.—The Peking Leader says that, following receipt of information that the Cabinet last Tuesday formally sanctioned the Federal Wireless Company's Contract, the Japanese Legation has lodged a further protest on the ground that it is a violation of the Mitsui Contract of 1918.

The Minister of Communications has deputed the Vice-Minister to see the Japanese Minister, Mr. Yoshizawa, who yesterday unsuccessfully tried to arrange an interview with the President in order to lodge the protest.

The paper adds that the American Legation has been informed that the Cabinet has given its full approval of the Federal Contract, only a few details remaining to be arranged.

The construction of the first station at Shanghai will probably begin this winter.

The journal learns authoritatively that except at Tokio there has been no talk of the formation of an international group to take over the Mitsui and Federal Contracts. The American Government has consistently insisted on the invalidity of the monopoly clause of the Mitsui Contract and has steadily refused to negotiate with Japan towards a compromise.

CHINA'S TOBACCO KING SUCCUMBS TO TUBERCULOSIS

Mr. Kan Chiu-nam Passes Away At Sinza Road Residence

Mr. Kan Chiu-nam, head of the Nanyang Brothers Tobacco Co., Ltd., and China's millionaire tobacco king, passed away at his residence at 183 Sinza Road Sunday morning after a brief illness of consumption. He was fifty-three years old and was born in Laichang, Namhai, Kwangtung.

The body was placed in the coffin in accordance with Buddhist rites this morning at 1 o'clock in the presence of the family and many sorrowing friends. The offices of the Nanyang Brothers and their factories were closed yesterday out of respect for the magnate. He is survived by the widow, three concubines, five sons, and a number of grandchildren.

Like many other big captains of industry, Mr. Kan started with a humble beginning, being the eldest of five children of a struggling family. At the age of 13, he lost his father and had to start out to make a livelihood not only for himself but also for his widowed mother and four brothers. He was, however, successful in securing enough earnings for the support of them all.

At 17 years of age, young Kan set out for Japan to deal in sea food and medical supplies. Later he changed his occupation to the sale of foodstuff and cotton goods. With a capital of only $3,000, he inaugurated the Shun Tai Steamship Co. with a leased ship to ply between Japanese and ports. This however was increased to five ships in a short while with a capital of several lakhs of dollars.

In 1906, Mr. Kan returned to China and with a number of his friends started the Nanyang Tobacco Company, capitalised at $100,000. This company met with little success and was bought out by Mr. Kan and his brothers in 1908. Despite adverse conditions, Mr. Kan and his brothers succeeded in reorganising the company and put it on a firm footing.

In 1915, the company was reorganised with an increased capital of a million dollars and registered with the Ministry of Commerce in Peking. In 1918 the capital was increased to $5,000,000 and in 1919, further increased to $15,000,000. The company has factories in Shanghai, Canton and Hongkong.

During the war, Mr. Kan donated over $300,000 worth of cigarettes to the Allied forces in France. He was also well-known in charitable activities, for which he was the recepient of the Second Class Chiaho Maru with the Grand Sash from Peking.

But it was his contribution to educational needs that will make his name go down in history as one whose efforts shall never be forgotten. For the last three years, he was instrumental in sending no less than 45 students to United States to enable them to seek for higher education at his and his company's expense. He also established and subsidised many schools in China.

In him, China lost truly an industrial leader, a philanthropist and a public spirited citizen.

FIFTEEN CHARGED AS MEMBERS OF BIG ROBBER BAND

Suspected Of Series Of Arms Thefts In Settlement

Fifteen men arrested as members of a gang of armed robbers who have been operating extensively in the Settlement and Frenchtown appeared in the Mixed Court yesterday. Of twelve who were arrested a week ago, two were dismissed, Chief Detective Inspector Cruickshank who effected their arrests, stating that evidently they were not concerned in the robberies. The rest were remanded for a special hearing, after which they will be turned over to the French authorities for trial on charges of committing armed robberies in the French Concession.

Three men arrested Sunday were ordered held under similar orders. One of the latter, an ex-soldier, is believed to be the leader of the outlaw crew. C. D. I. Cruickshank stated that most of the prisoners had made statements admitting participation in armed robberies.

Small Fire Occurs On Board Steamer Off The French Bund

Fire aboard the China Merchant's steamer King Hai, off the French Bund, resulted in the calling out of the French fire department shortly before 8 o'clock last evening. Fortunately the blaze proved to be a small one, well confined in one of the hatches, and was extinguished without difficulty and with little damage.

The French brigade was called out again about half an hour later to attend to another small outbreak near the corner of Avenue Joffre and Rue Pere Robert.

tude and open hostility of leader of the majority party in the legislature, against the chief executive is daily becoming more serious.

"In general, everybody admits that the situation is growing intolerable and that things cannot long continue as they are. The leaders in this movement of systematic opposition to the authorised representative of the sovereign power of the United States seemingly have forgotten the role which each department in this government plays within the system established here, and in their blind obsession they appear to have lost all sense of proportion, harmony and relationship.

"Judging from their agressiveness and mania for persecution, they would not stop short of bringing the country to a dangerous adventure, and we are fast approaching the brink of an abyss."

Beyond word that Governor Wood had arrived at Parang last night, no official news from Mindanao has been permitted to reach the public, though it is known that telegrams are being constantly received.

Tsao Kun Decides To Name A Compromise Candidate, Peking Hears

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Oct. 29.—The struggle between the parties advocating the appointment of Mr. Wu Ching-lien and Dr. W. W. Yen respectively as Premier has apparently reached a deadlock, neither side being able to overcome the opposition sufficiently for its candidate to have a fighting chance to be successful in office if appointed.

It is now reported semi-officially that President Tsao Kun has resolved temporarily to appoint a compromise candidate and has selected Mr. Sun Paoch'i, whose appointment as Acting Premier will be announced tomorrow.

ACHRON SCORES BIG SUCCESS AT SUNDAY CONCERT

Noted Pianist Much Appreciated; First Subscription Symphony Tonight

On Sunday afternoon the noted pianist, Mr. Isidor Achron, who accompanies Heifetz on his tour, appeared as soloist at the Town Hall concert. The hearty reception given him by the large audience and the great success indicated following the program must have given him a good impression of the appreciation his collaboration evoked.

Achron had chosen for his principal number one of the most difficult of concertos, and one which has not been heard here many times before—the Piano Concerto No. 1 by F. Liszt. Here he had a good opportunity to show his brilliant technique. The clarity of his playing and his dramatic force were wonderfully demonstrated. Not only that—he fitted exactly the right sentiment to the solo part: Quasi Adagio.

Maestro Paci and the Orchestra assisted splendidly considering the short time available for rehearsal and the applause was spontaneous and prolonged. Mr. Achron gave as encore Borodin's "Au couvent."

The concert opened with the second symphony of Bethoven and everyone seemed to especially enjoy the second part "Larghetto" with its beautiful and familiar melodies.

After the interval fragments of Brahms and Wagner were played, and excellently played.

This evening will be the occasion of the first of the subscription symphony concerts and a most pleasing program has been arranged, with Mrs. R. M. Vanderburgh as soloist. The program, starting at 9:15, will be as follows:

1.—Overture "The Magic Flute" Mozart
2.—Two Airs from "Le Nozze di Figaro" Mozart
(a) "Giunse alfin il momento
(b) "Voi che sapete.... "
3.—Tone Poem "Death and Transfiguration" Rich. Strauss
4.—Three Songs: Rich. Strauss
(a) To-morrow
(b) Love's Pleading
(c) To My Baby
INTERVAL
5.—Symphony No. 4 in F minor Tschaikowsky
(a) Andante sostenuto—Moderate con anim
(b) Andantino in modo di "Canzona"
(c) Scherzo (Pizzicato ostinato)
(d) Finale: Allegro con fuoco

Conductor: Maestro Mario Paci.

Barnes Divorce In British Court

partment, and Frank Hinds and Norman Webb, employees of the Municipal Council—that he intended going back to England. He had expressed the intention on numerous occasions they said, of spending the afternoon of his life in England, because he was fed up with Shanghai. All that kept him, they said, was his wife and children.

The last three witnesses concluded the evidence on the question of domicile and Sir Skinner, from the bench, said that since Barnes had returned from England after the war it seemed that it was his intention to make Shanghai his permanent home. The Court would assume jurisdiction in the case, he said, and he would give his reasons in writing later.

THE CHARGES

In stating the case for Mrs. Barnes, Mr. Kentwell said the petition was on cruelty and adultery. On one occasion, Mr. Kentwell said, Barnes flew into a violent rage when he was asked for money to buy food for the family and had beaten his wife. His wife had taken the children and gone to her sister's but was persuaded by Barnes to return to him. In March of 1914 Barnes again began drinking, he said, and on one occasion assulted his wife, badly affecting her health.

During the war Mrs. Barnes, he continued, supported herself by working on munitions, and they had several quarrels and separations. Because he was wounded Mrs. Barnes eventually made up, however, and retuned to China with him. After their return to Shanghai Barnes had again started drinking, he said, and had beaten her, and finally she definitely and finally separated from him.

Barnes had not supported his wife or family since 1919. Mr. Kentwell said, and on July 9, 1923, had committed adultery with a woman whose name was given as Mrs. Mackinnon.

WIFE ON STAND

Mrs. Barnes then took the stand and testified to numerous occasions on which she alleged Barnes had been drunk. He had failed to support her or her children for many years, she said, and she had gone to work in 1908. They lived very unhappily, she continued, and after they had gone to England and Barnes had become an officer in the British army he continued to drink, to beat and threaten her, and failed to support her.

On their return to Shanghai, she said, they went to live at Shepherds. On one occasion there, she went on, he came home at 4 o'clock in the morning very intoxicated, raised a row and called her vile names, and slipped and fell in the bathroom and cut his head. Mr. Shepherd had attended him and had given him notice to leave the next day.

Mr. C. E. Shepherd later testified to the same incident, corroborating Mrs. Barnes. When Barnes left, Mr. Shepherd said, he had asked about Mrs. Barnes and the husband had replied that she could look after herself.

Continuing, Mrs. Barnes said that while they were living in Kiangse Road he had struck her with a stick on one occasion and then she had learned that he was running around with other women.

She had Barnes shadowed by a detective, she said, and acting on infomation supplied had gone to the Trocadero on July 9. She went to his room, No. 8, about 4 o'clock in the morning, she said, and by climbing a chair and looking through a window had seen him with a woman.

"At last, Jack, I've got you," she said.

The woman asked who I was.

"Only my wife," she said her husband replied.

Her sister was with her but she went out looking for another witness and happened to meet a Mr. R. J. Gavin near the Astor House. He returned to the Trocadero with her.

Embezzling Charge Against Z. F. Chen Dismissed By Court

The embezzlement charge filed in the Mixed Court by Mr. S. S. Chow, representing the Central Press, against Mr. Z. F. Chen, formerly assistant manager of the company, was dismissed after coming up for hearing yesterday afternoon by Assessor Jacobs and Magistrate Ld.

The charge alleged that the defendant had embezzled Tls. 200 received by him on behalf of the company from the Far Eastern Mercantile Co. Evidence for the plaintiff firm was held to be insufficient and defendant's counsel put forward the argument that the charge was proved entirely groundless by the testimony of plaintiffs' own witness.

Mr. Chen defended by Mr. W. S. Fleming and plaintiffs were represented by Messrs. Platt & Co.

SENATORS TO WAGE BATTLE ON KELLOGG

Radicals Oppose Confirmation Of Ambassador Named By Coolidge

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Oct. 28.—It is announced that several Radical Senators will oppose confirmation of the appointment of Mr. Kellogg as Ambassador to Great Britain by the Senate, hoping thus to force a general discussion on foreign policy.

(Reuter's Service)

New York, Oct. 27.—The selection of Mr. Kellogg as the successor of Colonel Harvey as Ambassador in London has created considerable surprise in Washington, chiefly because the name had never previously been mentioned in that connection, although it is now known that the late President had him in mind for the post before he died.

The New York Times regards the appointment as a compliment to the West.

The New York Yorld comments favorably on Mr. Kellogg's personal qualifications.

N. F. Nissim Sues S. A. Hardoon For 64,000 Taels

Mr. N. Fred Nissim yesterday sued Mr. S. A. Hardoon in the British Supreme Court before Sir Skinner Turner for alleged commissions totaling Tls. 64,000. Mr. M. Reader Harris appeared for Mr. Nissim and Mr. R. N. Macleod for Mr. Hardoon.

Mr. Nissim alleged that he acted as the broker in the leasing of certain property on Nanking Road by the defendant to the Sun Sun Company. The lease was for a period of 32 years at an annual rental of Tls. 80,000 and under his agreement, he alleges, he is entitled to 2½ percent of Tls. 2,560,000 rent payable under the lease, which amounts to Tls. 64,000. Pleadings were ordered.

BUGS!

Eyes, Ears, Nose And Mouthfuls Of 'Em

Shanghai yesterday received a visitation of millions of pesky little bugs. The air appeared to be literally alive with them, both in the International Settlement and in the French Concession.

Pedestrians were considerably bothered by having them fly in their eyes or nose—or mouth, if they were so unfortunate to emit a slight yawn—but riders in ricshas and motor cars fared even worse and the tiny insects were blown into their faces, causing numerous and repeated wiping of the face and facial gymnastics.

Obituary

GENERAL SOULEVITCH

Funeral services for the late General Soulevitch, former Commandant of the Fortress at Vladivostok, who died at the General Hospital following a serious operation, were held at Bubbling Well Cemetery on Sunday afternoon.

The funeral procession from the Shanghai General Hospital to the cemetery took two hours, being participated in by a large part of the Russian colony in Shanghai, and watched by hundreds of people. The five highest dignitaries of the Russian Orthodox Church in Shanghai preceded the hearse and two military bands composed of the Russian Cadets played the funeral march.

General Soulevitch was one of the best known officers of the Old Imperial Russian Army in the Far East, being connected with it for a period of 45 years. When the Bolsheviks finally took Vladivostok he was driven from his last post and came to Shanghai as a refugee.

Mex. $2,000 for the usual quality against $2,420 at the beginning of September last. Estimates of the sixth and seventh silk crops in the Canton district are lower than at first given out, and this, it appears, has been due to the weather. The sixth crop is stated to yield about 5,000 bales, while that of the seventh is not yet known. Canton E. A. 14-18 is quoted on the New York market at about G. $9.72 per pound and Shanghai steam filature at G. $10.72 for Gold Double Deer brand. According to advices received in Shanghai, several of the American mills are curtailing their output, and indications point to a further reduction of operations next month unless the situation as regards price and supply improves.

The tussah crop is reported to have suffered damage as a result of the heavy storms in the districts. It was given out before that the yield of best grade this season would be 24,000 bales, but it is expected that this will in the light of recent happenings have to be modified.

CHANCES ARE AGAINST THE MAN WHO REFUSES TO TAKE CHANCES

Ferrier, Crompton, Gray And Richards To Play In Golf Semi-Final Sunday

First Round Matches Bring Out Much Better Scores Than In Qualifying Round; "J. B." Gets A 74

By Westa

A very greatly improved brand of golf was displayed in the first round of the championship, played Sunday at Kiangwan, over that shown in the qualifying tests the previous Sunday. The eight players who qualified met yesterday and after thirty-six holes of play four of them were eliminated. Next Sunday the remaining four will play the semi-final round, as follows:

Ferrier vs. Crompton and Clay vs. Richards.

In yesterday's play Ferrier defeated Arnold 7 and 5; Crompton defeated Cumming 6 and 4; Gray bested Malcolm 2 and 1, and Richards beat Lancaster 6 and 5.

While three of the matches were won by wide margins, the play was close most of the way. In the Ferrier-Arnold match the champion was only 3 up at the end of the morning round, and this despite the fact that he shot a fine 74, with all putts holed out. Mr. Arnold had to play sterling golf to hang on against this pace, and he did just that. At the thirteenth hole he was all square with his formidable opponent, who was setting an unusually dizzy pace. In the last five holes of the morning round Mr. Arnold slackened a bit as a result of which Ferrier drew ahead, the time interval finding him with a three hole advantage. Mr. Arnold's medal score for the morning round was 79.

FERRIER PULLS AWAY

In the afternoon the champion kept up the fast clip at which he started off, and soon began to pull away. His driving was terrific, his approaching masterful, and his putting fair. Mr. Ferrier had difficulty in getting his putter to working both in the morning and afternoon rounds, particularly in the morning, when three missed short putts prevented him from setting a new competitive record for the course.

In extenuation of these missed putts it can be said that the Kiangwan greens are in rather bad shape just now, due to the long dry spell. In addition to the lack of rain the ponds have nearly all dried up, so that the greenkeeper is unable to get water with which to sprinkle the putting surfaces. As a result they are dry, hard and lumpy, making putting an extremely hazardous undertaking and one in which "anything may happen" to the pellet after it leaves the putting blade.

The fact that Mr. Ferrier shot a 74 shows that the champion is back on his game, and that whoever beats him in the championship will have to travel some. Ferrier is a sound, steady golfer, of long experience in competitions, and when he is going good, as he was Sunday, he plays practically perfect golf.

The other match of interest Sunday was the one between Messrs. Crompton and Cumming, particularly because of the fact that Mr. Crompton has come to be looked upon lately at the only really serious rival of the champion for this year's chief honors.

Crompton is a youngster who has only recently become active in local golf, his interest during the summer having been centered in other sports, chiefly cricket and tennis. He has been out from England only about a year, although he was born here and lived here as a boy, afterwards going to England, where he was educated. In the home country he acquired great proficiency as a golfer, and was a scratch man at his home club.

LONG HITTER

He hits a tremendous ball from the tee—the longest driver, undoubtably, that ever played here; but so far this season he has had some trouble in getting his game under control, particularly on the first nine holes, which seem to hold some sort of jinx for him. On the last nine, however, he makes up for all lost ground, and then some. In the qualifying round, with an 85 in the morning and a 45 on the first nine holes the chances looked to be about ten to one against his qualifying, but he lashed out on the final nine holes for a par 36, which gave him an 81 for the round. That shows the kind of golf he is capable of, and if he can uncork some of it next Sunday in his match with Ferrier the contest ought to be worth going miles to watch.

In his match with Cumming, himself a very fine golfer, Crompton was two up at noon, and one up after the 19th hole, which Cumming won. In his game Crompton had trouble in keeping his shots straight—so much trouble, in fact, that he used an iron on the first tee in the afternoon. Despite this wildness he got around in 74, the same as Ferrier, with some approximations. His afternoon medal score was 79.

Cumming had several good opportunities to pile up leads, but couldn't get going well enough to take advantage of his opponent's wildness. Finally Crompton got his clubs to working and as a result Mr. Cumming didn't have a chance. Their match was decided on the 14th green.

GRAY BEATS MALCOLM

The Gray-Malcolm match furnished the surprise of the day, as it was generally felt that Mr. Malcolm would win, regardless of the fact that Mr. Gray is a steady golfer who gets results despite the fact that he is no great shucks as a stylist. At the end of the morning round Mr. Malcolm was 1 up, thanks to a fine exhibition of shot making on his part, his medal score being 78. Mr. Gray hung on closely, however, and in the afternoon he forged ahead, his golf acquiring a steadiness that was too much for Mr. Malcolm, Mr. Gray's afternoon medal score was 76, which was his afternoon score in the qualifying round. A 76 is a good score at Kiangwan or anywhere else, and if he can keep up the pace at which he has started in the champion-series he is bound to be a serious contender for final honors. Next Sunday he meets Mr. Richards in the lower bracket of the semi-final, and on the basis of their respective play so far since the series started Mr. Gray ought to win.

In Richards, however, he will meet a man of much his own style of play—a steady, cautious, painstaking golfer who allows no opportunity to get away, and who is particularly dangerous on the putting greens. If Mr. Richards has one of his "putting days" next Sunday the battle between him and Gray will be a good one. Gray ought to outplay Richards from the tee, but around the greens Charlie will have the advantage. Gray is no Ferrier or Crompton for distance, but he is as good as they are in the matter

CANDIDATES FOR WALKING MATCH ASKED TO MEET

Preliminary Session Will Be Held At New Carlton This Evening

All those interested in the revival of the Shanghai walking competition are requested to attend a meeting this evening at 6:30 o'clock at the New Carlton Cafe. It is hoped there will be a large attendance.

At this meeting a temporary committee will be named to stir up interest in the proposed revival of the sport and it is believed that several candidates for hiking honors will turn out. Among those who are taking a lead in the plans for another big walking match is Mr. N. Webb, of the S.M.C. revenue department, and anyone interested should communicate with him.

The promoters of the proposed revival point out that a walking match here ought to draw out a large number of candidates. Since the last match was held the Volunteer Corps has been enlarged, giving more men opportunities for walking, and golf has greatly increased in popularity. Some of the golfers ought to make great walkers, since in the course of every round they travel five or six miles, notwithstanding the fact that the course is only three miles long.

At the meeting this evening the whole situation will be gone into and plans made for a revival of the sport.

H.M.S. 'Ambrose' Defeats Nanyang

The above game, played at Nanyang College grounds on Sunday afternoon, resulted in a well deserved victory for the Navy team by 3 goals to 1. In the first half the Nanyang team played up to reputation but fell off as the game progressed whereas the Ambrose men were gradually finding their feet and improved very much. The Navy team outclassed the Collegians in every department of the game, especially in the second half, when they played super football to the delight of the 500 odd spectators present. Mr. A. H. Leslie officiated and although one or two of his decisions were of a doubtful nature he nevertheless kept the game well in hand.

Colleges In Tokio Planning Baseball Series Next Month

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, Oct. 23.—For some time past the suggestion has been put forward that every encouragement should be given to the revival of games and sports, which were temporarily abandoned as the result of the confusion created by the disaster. As a sign of the attempt to return to a normal life, the various colleges in Tokio announce a series of baseball matches for the early part of next month.

Also on the 10th and 11th of November the first series of eliminating contests for prospective representatives at the Paris Olympic games will be held at the Osaka Stadium.

A day or two ago it was stated that Osaka athletes were proposing annual athletic contests with China, and would further attempt to widen the scope of the Far Eastern Olympiad by the inclusion of Siam, the Malay States, India and Far Eastern Russia.

Four Survive For Golf Semi-Final

of direction, and direction is a greatest asset a golfer can have.

"WILLIE" LOSES

The match Sunday between Richards and Lancaster was in the nature of a walkaway for Richards, Mr. Lancaster being entirely off form. Despite his best efforts the popular "Willie" could not get his clubs to working, the result being an easy win for Richards.

This brings the series, as stated, into the semi-final stage, with two good contests in sight for next Sunday. The one between Ferrier and Crompton will undoubtedly attract a gallery, as this match will be a classic if both players are at the top of their form. Crompton is sure to lash out some 300 yard drives, and as for Ferrier's play, it is always a pleasure to watch.

GOLF NOTES

That the failure of Charlie Hopkins to qualify for the championship was an accident was demonstrated in a fourball match yesterday in which "Hoppy" was a contestant. In this match the redoubtable Charlie reeled off eight threes on the first twelve holes, a drive and two putts being all he needed on the third, fourth, sixth, seventh, ninth, tenth, eleventh and twelfth. That is some shooting, and if Hoppy could have hit anything near that pace a week ago Sunday he would have been in the championship series, where he belongs. Watch that bird next year.

The committee of the Shanghai golf club that has the purchase of the new course in charge has made excellent progress, with the result that the land will be ready for the surveyors in a couple of weeks. It is hoped that a start toward laying out the course can be made before the first of the year.

The new course is adjacent to the railroad and it is the present plan to have the new club house about 400 yards from the railroad station. The new course, it is believed, will be in the neighborhood of 6,000 yards long, making it of championship caliber. The ground, like the present course, is flat, but is well marked with ditches, graves, etc., that can be used for hazards. There are no trees on the land at present, but some will be planted, so that in time it is hoped to have a regular "homeside" course.

While the ground is adjacent to the railroad, it will be accessible by motorcars, a new government road being now in the course of construction. This road will be an extension of the one that leads out past Fuh Tan university (just across the track from the ninth green) and will be only about five or ten minutes further away than the present course.

Poincare Again Affirms France's Firm Stand In Dispute On Reparations

(French Wireless)

Paris, Oct. 28.—In a speech of an unveiling of a war memorial at Sampigny, M. Poincare again affirmed that the Republic, considering sacred the last desires of those who died in the war, would save the work for which they sacrificed themselves, in spite of all maneuvers to disparage France. He foresaw, moreover that the period of subterfuges would continue. Germany alleged in 1922 that she could not abandon the coal in the Ruhr. The occupation had proved the contrary. She now declared that she was incapable of financing deliveries. Nevertheless her policy of ill-will, financial squandering and monetary disorder, bringing about internal catastrophes, had begun a struggle in the contrary sense and had aroused the antagonism even of Germans themselves. The latter, in spite of the declarations of Dr. Stresemann, were exclusively responsible for this rising. France remained scrupulously outside German internal affairs and would never violate the conscience of the people of the occupied territory. She cherished no plan of annexation, but she would not renounce her claims to the permanent guarantees of security, which had been promised at Versailles but were not forthcoming. Germany was paralysing the control of the military commissions and retaining forbidden effectives and armaments. She would be able rapidly to re-adopt her factories for war manufactures and also to equip an air fleet in a few days. Military influences continued to dominate her. France would be very imprudent not to keep on her guard or to abandon or weaken her means of protection. France was not disposed to sacrifice reparations. The present incidents had shown that France was perfectly right in taking pledges. If she had them not, Germany would today be her mistress, not only rich but continuing to enrich herself at the expense of France, and over feeding the factories of the Reich with coal from the Ruhr. Now, on the contrary, Germany was herself interested in taking the necessary measures to pay. She knew that France would not abandon the pledges before she had been paid. It was for her to hasten by a sincere effort France's evacuation of the Ruhr. France expected from her Allies exclusively observation of the Treaty which they had signed. The Reparations Commission had fixed the debt after prolonged consideration and repeated hearings of the Reich. It had even reduced the British demand as excessive. Mr. Lloyd George had accepted the figure decided upon, which the Commission had notified on May 5, 1921, to Germany by an ultimatum. The fixing of the debt was, therefore, definitive and confirmed by Treaty, and could not be modified without France's consent. The Treaty, in fact, provided expressly that no remission should be granted unless by unanimity of the creditors, and France had been through too much suffering to agree to reduction.

In proceeding to an estimate of Germany's capacity for payment it was a question of arriving at a favorable reduction of the debt by the same combination. The Treaty precisely charged the Reparations Commission to make from time to time this estimate of the capacity for payment, naturally varying according to the financial and economic position. There was no reason to take away from it this function, granted the value, competence, impartiality, high conscience and absolute loyalty of its members. Germany had resumed contact with the Commission and the latter would hear the delegates of the Reich. Let them allow the Commission to carry out its work of fulfilling its mandate!

Mr. Poincare then made allusion to Mr. Baldwin's invitation to consider thrice the proposal for the meeting of experts. He had meditated on it, he said, many more times than three, and it appeared to him that he was in agreement with the British Prime Minister on the essential point namely, the earliest possible settlement between the Allies of reparations. France was more interested than any one in the outcome, and was not foolish enough to wish to retard it. France, like Mr. Baldwin, wished the United States to participate in the affairs of Europe. She believed that the closer economic, financial and moral solidarity became between them and the New Continent, the better would the cause of humanity be served. M. Poincare considered that an international conference would make numbers of contradictory and useless speeches every day whilst the inhabitants of the devastated districts continued to wait for stone and tile to reconstruct their homes. If Britain did not think of giving a seat to Germany, if she desired only to obtain the co-operation of the United States, it would be easy to come to an understanding on the idea already in the minds of Paris, as well as Washington Brussels and Rome. The Reparations Commission would call a meeting of experts to fix Germany's capacity for payment, and to demand from the Reich a program for financial and monetary reform and the precise state of reparations, all within the four corners of the Treaty, but France could not accept that the Commission should be overruled or replaced by an organisation in which the influence of France, which was already inferior to her interests, would be still further reduced. The limit of France's concessions was reached and she would go no further. For four years she had been paying for the advantages granted to Germany in spite of the Treaty, and that was enough.

The Premier, in conclusion, declared that France had not forgotten the part of the Allies in the common victory, but pointed out that each, while fighting for the others, was fighting also and especially for itself. France had given as much as she had received. She had suffered much greater damage of her own soil, where the fate of the war was cast, and would not alone bear almost the whole of the expenses of a cause vital for all, for, if the French or Belgian frontier were again crossed, her Allies would soon be threatened. Behind France and Belgium there was a policy of general good of the nation. To prudence and firmness, in no way abandon it would be to do a disgoisble but commanded by the service to the whole world.

Wedding

EWING—McCOLL.

The wedding took place yesterday, at the British Consulate-General, and later at Union Church, of Miss Jemima Grey Smyth McColl, daughter of Mr. D. McColl, General manager of the Shanghai Electric Construction Company, and Mr. Andrew Arbuckle Ewing, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ewing, Dowanhill, Glasgow.

The church ceremony was performed by the Rev. A. N. Rowland, in the presence of a large number of friends of the young couple. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a charming gown of ivory metallic satin trimmed with silver lace and touches of orange blossom and with a net veil embroidered in silver. She carried a shower bouquet of tea roses.

The bridesmaids, Misses Vera Froberg and Betty Dawson, wore shot golden taffeta gowns trimmed with clusters of flowers, with poke bonnets to match, and carried sheaves of golden chrysanthemums. The flower girls Misses Daphne Rogers and Betty Roberts, carried baskets of petals. The matron of honor was Mrs. R. J. McNicol, sister of the bride. All of the costumes of the bride's attendants were of the 2nd Empire period and were most attractive.

Mr. A. Knowles acted as best man and Messrs. A. Bourne, G. D. Nicholl, J. Marshall and J. Stewart as ushers. A guard of honor was furnished by members of the Shanghai Scottish, S.V.C., of which unit the groom was formerly a member.

Following the wedding a reception was held at 4:30 p.m. at the home of the bride's father, 1502, Avenue Joffre, where the toast was proposed by Captain A. R. Campbell, of the Shanghai Scottish. The bride and groom later left for a houseboat trip to the Taku Lake and will sail on Saturday by the Haruna Maru for Singapore, where Mr. Ewing is sub-manager to the official receiver and manages of the Singapore tramways.

A large number of beautiful presents were received by Mr. and Mrs. Ewing from relatives and friends individually and from the Shanghai Scottish and the staff of the Shanghai Tramways.

Krautsch Divorce Action Heard In American Court

The case in which Mrs. Laura Castro Krautsch is suing Charles A. Krautsch was called before Judge Charles S. Lobingier in the U.S. Court for China yesterday. Mr. Krautsch did not appear and his wife, through Mr. C. S. Franklin, asked for a decree by default. Mrs. Krautsch testified she was married on September 17, 1918, and had one child by the marriage. On two occasions her husband had treated her with extreme cruelty, she said. In June he had come home one morning at 6 o'clock, torn her clothes from her and beaten her with his fists. On September 16, he said, he had again returned home early in the morning, strangled her on the bed and threatened her life with a rifle. On that occasion she had fled to the United States Marshal for protection at daylight, she said. Judgment was reserved.

Lambe Asks To Be Executor Of Harvey Estate

Mr. Eugene M. Lambe made application before Judge Charles S. Lobingier in the U.S. Court for China yesterday to become executor of the estate of the late John Ruscombe Harvey. Mr. Lambe, through Mr. Leonard G. Husar of Rodger and Husar, applied as a close personal friend of the deceased and stated that he had left property valued at approximately Tls. 10,000.

Mr. Harvey is survived, he said, by his widow, who is sailing from Florence, Italy, for Shanghai on November 10, and his mother, who resides in Worle, Somerset, England. Mr. Harvey left no will. Judge Lobingier took the question under consideration.

MARRIAGE

EWING-McCOLL.—On October 29th 1923 at H.B.M. Consulate General, Shanghai before Mr. G. S. Moss, M.B.E. acting Consul General, and afterwards at the Union Church by the Rev. A. N. Rowland M.A., Andrew Arbuckle Ewing, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ewing Dowanhill, Glasgow, to Jemima Grey Smyth daughter of Mr. Donald McColl, Shanghai.

The Sane View

ONE of the most rational events in the long drawn out dispute over the question of Reparations is the agreement of the French Government to a conference on the subject of Germany's ability to pay. The fact that such a conference is to be subordinate to the Reparations Commission, which is to appoint it, may or may not mean a hampering of its effectiveness, for while it undoubtedly gives the Commission the right to reject the findings of the conference, or to revise them in accordance with its own ideas on the subject, it is inconceivable that it would have the impertinence to do so in view of the manner in which the conference is coming into existence.

The rationality of the proceeding which has already tended to reduce tension so long apparent between the principal European countries involved in the tedious process of getting something out of Germany is its best commendation, but an even more important feature of development is the suggested invitation to America to send a representative to such a conference, with more than a little likelihood that the invitation will be accepted. It is clear that the divergent views of the chief actors in the dispute in Europe have so little in common that agreement without the assistance of some third party to discover a via media for ultimate settlement has seemed will nigh impossible, and it was undoubtedly with this in view that General Smuts voiced the appeal which he did last week for help from the United States. Europe wants help; its chancelleries seem incapable of finding a solution themselves and in the nature of things, they have turned to the United States for assistance.

Considering for a moment Mr. Hughes' reply to Earl Curzon on the matter, we find that the attitude taken by Washington is fully in accord with definite policies laid down, and that no departure therefrom is possible unless with the consent of Congress. In other words, while Mr. Hughes may see his way clear to appointing expert American assistance to a conference to investigate Germany's ability to pay, he is unprepared to appoint any representative to the Reparations Commission—the executive body which carry the recommendations of the conference into force—without the direct assent of the legislative body of the United States.

This attitude is nothing less than correct. Whatever might have been the arguments in favor of more American intervention in European affairs shortly succeeding the completion of peace, the developments of the last four years, with attendant embroilments have presented no inducement to vary the stand originally adopted and it is to be doubted whether Congress would consent to a more active participation in these purely European matters than it has in the past. At the same time it is clear that the government will be ready to give what assistance it can in exploring every possible path that might eventually become a means of removing those causes of dispute which more than anything else are obstructing Europe's economic rehabilitation.

One other aspect of the whole matter cannot be overlooked. The often-urged contention that the payment of Allied debts to the United States is involved in the successful extraction of reparations from Germany is fundamentally bad. In the first event the Allies borrowed from us without any such contingency attached to the transaction. Had they won or lost the War their indebtedness would have been just the same, and it cannot now be urged that failure to recover money from Germany can in any way vary the liability which was incurred.

For that reason it is probably just as well that Mr. Hughes emphasised in his reply to Earl Curzon the point that reparations and Allied payment of debts to the United States constitute two distinct obligations. In other words Washington will not agree that payment of war debts to America shall be contingent upon obtaining funds from Germany. If it did, the next logical step would be a suggestion that, in settlement of Allied indebtedness, America should take over Germany's debts to the Allies, a transfer of liability which would involve the United States in exactly the same difficulties which are wracking the brains of European statemen at the present time.

It is clear, therefore, that Mr. Hughes has gone a long way towards meeting the Allies, and, by the appointment of a representative to the conference in question, might go even further; but he cannot make many more concessions. To do so would deprive Washington of the commanding position it at present holds by reason of its isolation, involve it in the very disputes it has always been the policy of the government to avoid and even then fail to find that solution for which Europe has vainly sought for five years.

Germany is not to obtain much except sheer justice from any American assistance to such a conference, if it be granted, for Mr. Hughes has definitely laid it down that participation by the United States will mean neither the pursuit of an aim to relieve Germany of her obligations or to countenance any resistance to the fulfilment of her obligations. The function of the conference will be to decide whether Germany can pay, and, we suppose, the best means for making her do so, having regard to her own position as well as that of her creditor nations. Thus to the two European opposing contentions (1) that Germany can and shall pay and (2) that Germany cannot and should not be made to pay, comes the third and probably the best, that if Germany can pay she should be made to do so. That is the American view and it seems the saner of the three.

The flappers and their grandma's in the United States spent over G.$70,000,000 on powder and paint and perfume last year, according to Department of Commerce figures. The little scents sure do count up!

THE PASSING OF LITTLE GARLIC-SAN

Little Garlic-san has passed on!

If you have tears prepare to shed 'em right now, or forever hold your rain. Like Little Sun-flower, who some time back was the sunshine of our existence, dear Little Garlic-san has gone the way of all wimmen. No more will she whisper sweet nothings in our cauliflower ear for the edification of dwellers within the Pagoda of Piffle. No more will we trip heavily over her little golden-lilies with our hob-nailed boots, while doing our stuff. She has went. From time to time we've attempted to solve the riddle of the ages by cultivating mysterious shebas. Always they pass us by in the long run. Some—like the Grecian Goddess and the Slim Princess—pack their vanity-cases and go home (sometimes before they find us out! thank Heavens) and sometime they simply let us stick around long enough to scrape off the veneer and then give us the g.b. right out on our conk. Little Garlic-san and her caustic comments will be missed—by us more than you. Flaming youth will not be extinguished, however. Watch this space as the boats arrive with the griffins.

As Calvin Coolidge Thinks

Political Life Does Not Pay The Honesty Of Public Men—Conduct Of Elections

ON THE NATURE OF POLITICS

Politics is not an end, but a means. It is not a product, but a process. It is the art of government. Like other values it has its counterfeits. So much emphasis has been put upon the false that the significance of the true has been obscured and politics has come to convey the meaning of crafty and cunning selfishness instead of candid and sincere service. The Greek derivation shows the nobler purpose. Politikos means city rearing, statecraft. And when we remember that city also meant civilization the spurious presentment, mean and sordid, drops away and the real figure of the politician, dignified and honorable, minister to civilization, author and finisher of government, is revealed in its true and dignified proportions.

There is always something about genius that is indefinable, mysterious, perhaps to its possessor most of all. It has been the product of rude surroundings no less than of the most cultured environment, want and neglect have sometimes nourished it, abundance and care have failed to produce it. Why some succeed in public life and others fail would be as difficult to tell as why some succeed or fail in other activities.

Very few men in America have started out with any fixed idea of entering public life, fewer still would admit having such an idea. It was said of Chief Justice Waite of the United States Supreme Court, being asked when a youth what he proposed to do when a man, he replied he had not yet decided whether to be President or Chief Justice. This may be in part due to a general profession of holding to the principle of Benjamin Franklin that office should neither be sought nor refused and in part to the America idea that the people choose their own officers so that public service is not optional. In other countries this is not so. For centuries some seats in the British Parliament were controlled and probably sold as were commissions in the army, but that has never been the case here. A certain Congressman, however, on arriving at Washington was asked by an old friend how he happened to be elected. He replied that he was not elected, but appointed. It is worth while noting that the boss who was then supposed to hold the power of appointment in that district has since been driven from power, but the Congressman, though he was defeated when his party was largely divided, has been reelected. All of which suggests that the boss did not appoint in the first instance, but was merely well enough informed to see what the people wanted before they had formulated their own opinions and desires. It was said of McKinley that he could tell what Congress would do on a certain measure before the men in Congress themselves knew what their decision was to be. Cannon has said of McKinley that his ear was so close to the ground that it was full of grasshoppers. But the fact remains that office brokerage is here held in reprehensive scorn and professional office seeking in contempt. Every native born American, however, is potentially a President, and it must always be remembered that the obligation to serve the State is forever binding upon all, although office is the gift of the people.

Of course these considerations relate not to appointive places like the judiciary, commissionerships, clerical positions and like places, but to the more important elective offices. Another reason why political life of this nature is not chosen as a career is that it does not pay. Nearly all offices of this class are held at a financial sacrifice, not merely that the holder could earn more at some other occupation, but that the salary of the office does not maintain the holder of the office. It is but recently that Parliament has paid a salary to its members. In years gone by the United States Senate has been rather marked for its number of rich men. Few prominent members of Congress are dependent on their salary, which is but another way of saying that in Washington Senators and Representatives need more than their official salaries to become most effective.

For these reasons we have no profession of politics or of public life in the sense that we have a profession of law and medicine and other learned callings. We have men who have spent many years in office, but it would be difficult to find one outside the limitations noted who would refer to that as his business, occupation or profession.

The inexperienced are prone to hold an erroneous idea of public life and its methods. Not long ago I listened to a joint debate in a prominent preparatory school. Each side took it for granted that public men were influenced only by improper motives and that officials of the Government were seeking only their own gain and advantage without regard to the welfare of the people. Such a presumption has no foundation in fact. There are dishonest men in public office. There are quacks, shysters and charlatans among doctors, lawyers and clergy, but they are not representative of their professions nor indicative of their methods. Our public men, as a class, are inspired by honorable and patriotic motives, desirous only of a faithful execution of their trust from the executive and legislative branches of the States and nation down to the executives of our towns, who bear the dignified and significant title of selectmen. Public men must expect criticism and be prepared to endure false charges from their opponents. It is a matter of no great concern to them. But public confidence in government is a matter of great concern. It cannot be maintained in the face of such opinions as I have mentioned. It is necessary to differentiate between partisan assertions and actual conditions. It is necessary to recognize worth as well as to condemn graft. No system of government can stand that lacks public confidence and no progress can be prade on the assumption of a false premise. Public administration is honest and sound and public business is transacted on a higher plane than private business.

There is no difficulty for men in college to understand elections and government. They have all had experience in it. The same motives that operate in the choice of class officers operate in choosing officers for the Commonwealth. Here men are soon estimated at their true worth. Here places of trust are conferred and administered as they will be in later years. The scale is smaller, the opportunities are less, conditions are more artificial, but the principles are the same. Of course the present estimate is not the ultimate. There are men here who appear important that will not appear so in years to come. There are men who seem insignificant now who will develop at a later day. But the motive which leads to elections here leads to elections in the State.

Is there any special obligation on the part of college bred men to be candidates for public office? I do not think so. It is said that although college graduates constitute but 1 percent of the population, they hold about 50 percent of the public offices, so

EXTRACT FROM EXPERT REPORT:

"Having visited most of the cement factories of Great Britain, America and Europe, I am in a position to form an opinion of the relative merits and faults of each.....but my experiences lead me to the conclusion that 'pride of place' must unquestionably be given to the Holderbank Factory in Switzerland .....In design and construction it is a model without rival in any country." W. H. Brown, A. M. I. Mech. E., leading authority in England on cement manufacturing.

The Wisdom of the ancient Sage and the technical experiences of a modern authority on cement manufacturing have guided us to instal a set of machinery in our Lungwha Works which is an exact model of the one used by the Holderbank factory, Switzerland, and supplied by the original patentees with numerous latest improvements. WHAT IS LOVE?

IS the answer the same throuth the ages, or—DOES Love vary with each generation?

IS Love now, after such a climactic event as the World War, different from the love of the days of our fathers and mothers?

BY SAMUEL MERWIN

Author of "The Passionate Pilgrim" and many successful books

Love can hardly change with the generations. Only manners change. As to what "love" may be, I should have to use each one of the two hundred words allotted to me to indicate a separate variety. Often love is confused with companionship, sometimes it is self-seeking, sometimes a nervous attraction, sometimes an ecstacy, sometimes a battle. It is often inextricably confused with hatred. At the root it is of course a primitive emotional attraction between man and woman, so primitive as to seek color and justification in mental understanding or in common social habit or in mere accepted usage. It is probably most often stirred by propinquity, because it is a dominant element in ordinary human equipment. It is personal, possessive, intense while at lasts. The only relation it seems to bear to successful marriage is that marriage confers on it social sanction and a sense of control. It cannot endure indefinitely because nobody can continue indefinitely in a state of excitement. Every flame dies out. The success of marriage always hangs, I think, on the ability of the lovers to adjust their emotional natures to a tolerant and intelligent sense of companionship. Duty enters at this point, and selfcontrol, and a capacity for friendship. These qualities have nothing to do with love. They are its opposites.

BY BRUNO LESSING

Voltaire defines love as "the embroidery of the imagination upon the stuff of nature." This, whether one agrees with it or not, is a clear-cut, comprehensive definition expressed in twelve words. Can anyone give a better definition in twenty-five words?

Below are a few short definitions from readers:

"Love suffereth long and is kind;
Love envieth not;
Love is not puffed up;
Love vaunteth not itself;
Love behaveth not unseemingly;
Endureth all things;
Hopeth all things;
Believeth all thing."
—Prof. John Stimson,
Corona, Cal.

"Love is that quality of affection toward another which prompts the human being, male or female, to give up or sacrifice personal convenience, individual rights and everything else even to life itself, as for instance in the case of mother and child, if such action is thought to benefit the object of one's affection, without claiming any credit therefore."
—Chas. G. Herbert,
New York City.

"Love—An idealised attraction or affection between congenial souls that will withstand all trials of life."
—Mrs. A. L. Blackman,
Atlanta, Ga.

"Love is the unconscious sacrifice of one's self and desires for the good and happiness of the one beloved."
—Anna W. Gordon,
Brooklyn, N. Y.

"It is instinct dominating mind under the law of natural selection.
It is communion through the senses
It is civilisation conquered by an inevitable emotion.
It is the sense feeding the fires of thought.
It is the oasis in the desert of Life.
It is the Utopia of mental vision.
It is the rainbow after the mental storm.
It is the cream of imagination in the milk of Life.
It is something poor mortals try to define but cannot."
—L. Turk, Booklyn, N. Y.

"Love is the most powerful and potent substance of the universe. It is atonement. At-one-ment with the Creator."
—Mary T. Lacey, Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Love (and what that is impure, shallow, or insincere, is worthy of the name?) is the instinctive fulfilling of the Great Creator's law of life, and therefore, even in sorrow, charged with imperishable preciousness, and in joy, ecstatically radiated by that spark of Divinity which dwells within us."
—Helen Stewart Campbell,
Arlington, N. J.

Readers of The China Press are invited to contribute their views on 'What Is Love?' in the above symposium. Address, Editor, The China Press.

As Calvin Coolidge Thinks

that this question seems to take care or itself. But I do not feel that there is any more obligation to run for office than there is to become a banker, a merchant, a teacher, or enter any other special occupation. As indicated, some men have a particular aptitude in this direction and some have none. Of course experience counts here as in any other human activity, and all experience worth the name is the result of application, of time and thought and study and practice. If the individual finds he has liking and capacity for this work he will involuntarily find himself engaged in it. There is no catalogue of such capacity. One man gets results in one way, another in another. But in general only the man of broad sympathy and deep understanding of his fellow men can meet with much success.

What I have said relates to the somewhat narrow field of office holding. This is really a small part of the American system or of any system. James Bryce tells us that we have a Government of public opinion. That is growing to be more and more true of the Government of the entire world. The first care of despotism seems to be to control the school and the press. Where the mind is free it turns not to force but to reason for the source of authority. Men submit to a Government of force as we are doing now when they believe it is necessary to protect them from the imposition of force from without . . . Government does rest upon the opinions of men. Its results rest on their actions. This makes every man a politician whether he will or no. This lays the burden on us all. Men who have had the advantages of liberal culture ought to be the leaders in maintaining the standards of citizenship. Unless they can and do accomplish this result education is a failure. Greatly have they been taught, greatly must they teach. The power to think is the most practical thing in the world. It is not and cannot be cloistered from politics.

We live under a republican form of government. We need forever to remember that representative government does represent. A careless, indifferent representative is the result of careless, indifferent electorate. The people who start to elect a man to get what he can for his district will probably find they have elected a man who will get what he can for himself. A body will keep on its course for a time after the moving impulse ceases by reason of its momentum. The men who founded our government had fought and thought mightily on the relationship of man to his government. Our institutions would go for a time under the momentum they gave. But we should be deluded without more of the same stern sacrifice offered in perpetuity. Government is not an edifice that the founders turn over to posterity all completed. It is an institution, like a university, which falls unless the process of education continues.

There will come out of government exactly what we put into it. Society gets about what it deserves. It is the part of educated men to know and recognise these principles an influences and, knowing them, to inform and warn their fellow countrymen! Politics is the process of action in public affairs. It is personal. It is individual and nothing more. Destiny is in you.

Essay on "The Nature of Politics.

It may be that there would be votes for the Republican party in the promise of low taxes and vanishing expenditures. I can see an opportunity for its candidates to rose as the apostles of retenchment and reform. I am not one of those who believe votes are to be won by misrepresentations, skillful presentations of half truths and plausible deductions from false premises. Good government cannot be found on the bargain counter. We have seen samples of bargain counter government in the past when low tax rates were secured by increasing the bonded debt for current expenses or refusing to keep our institutions up to the standard in repairs, extensions, equipment and accommodations. I refuse, and the Republican party refuses to indorse that method of sham and shoddy economy. New projects can wait, but the commitments of the commonwealth must be maintained.

I agree that partisanship should stop at the boundary line, but I assert that patriotism should begin there. . . . I feel the time has come when people must assert themselves and show that they will tolerate no delay and no parsimony in the care of our unfortunates. Restore the fame of our State in the handling of these problems to its former luster.

Address at Riverside, Aug 28, 1916.

I am not criticizing individuals. I am denouncing a system. When you substitute patronage for patriotism administration breaks down. We need more of the office desk and less of the show window in politics. Let men in office substitute the midnight oil for the limelight.

Address at the home of August C. Gardner, Sept., 1916.

I have spoken on some of the fundamental differences between the Republican and Democratic policies and showed how we were dependent on Republican principles as a foundation on which to erect any advance in our social and economic welfare. This year the Republican party has adopted a very advanced platform. That was natural, for we have always been the party of progress.

The result has been that here in Massachusetts, where our party has ever been strong, and where we have framed legislation for more than fifty years, more progress has been made along the lines of humanitarian legislation than in any other State. We have felt free to call on our industries to make large outlays along these lines because we have furnished them with the advantages of a protective tariff and an honest and efficient State government. The consequences have been that in this State the hours and conditions of labor have been better than anywhere else on earth.

CASTORIA
for Infants and Children.

The Effects of Opiates.

THAT INFANTS are peculiarly susceptible to opium and its various preparations, all of which are narcotic, is well known. Even in the smallest doses, if continued, these opiates cause changes in the functions and growth of the cells, which are likely to become permanent, causing imbecility, mental perversion, a craving for alcohol or narcotics in after life. Nervous diseases, such as intractable nervous dyspepsia and lack of staying power, are a result of dosing with opiates or narcotics to keep children quiet in their infancy. The rule among physicians is that children should never receive opiates in the smallest doses for more than a day at a time, and only then if unavoidable.

The administration of Anodynes, Drops, Cordials, Soothing Syrups and other narcotics to children by any but a physician cannot be too strongly decried, and the druggist should not be a party to it. Children who are ill need the attention of a physician, and it is nothing less than a crime to dose them wilfully with narcotics. Castoria contains no narcotics if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

The signature of Chas. H. Fletcher guarantees genuine Castoria

Physicians Recommend Castoria.

"Your preparation known as Castoria I have used for years in children's complaints and I have found nothing better."
JOHN J. LEFFA, M. D., Cleveland, Ohio.

"For several years I recommended your 'Castoria' and shall always continue to do so, as it has invariably produced beneficial results."
EDWIN F. PARDEE, M. D., New York City.

"Your Castoria is a meritorious household remedy. It is purely vegetable and acts as a mild cathartic. Above all, it does no harm, which is more than can be said of the great majority of children's remedies."
VICTOR H. COFFMAN, M. D., Omaha, Neb.

"I have prescribed your Castoria in many cases and have always found it an efficient and speedy remedy."
A. F. PEELER, M. D., St. Louis, Mo.

"I have used your Castoria in my own household with good results, and have advised several patients to use it for its mild, laxative effect and freedom from harm."
EDWARD PARRISH, M. D., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Your Castoria holds the esteem of the medical profession in a manner held by no other proprietary preparation. It is a sure and reliable medicine for infants and children. In fact it is the universal household remedy for infantile ailments."
J. A. PARKER, M. D., Kansas City, Mo.
